DEMOS IN BAD FIX OVER FOOD RULING

Legislature's Failure to Appropriately Fund for Department Likely to Cause Shutdown.

AID TO GO INTO THE COURTS

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—The opinion of Attorney General Reed that the members of the State Railway commission have no right to their office, together with the fact that other state officers under the same ruling might also be holding against constitutional requirements, has for a time taken a back seat, and the question which now worries most of the democratic officials and others interested in the payment of state warrants issued for payment of salaries and expenses of the pure food and fire commission departments.

Treasurer Hall has refused to follow the opinion of the attorney general that the fire commission warrants may be paid by the state treasurer, and it is understood that after September 1 he will also refuse to pay warrants of the pure food department, on the ground that the legislature failed to make any specific appropriation giving the department the right to draw on the fees of the department paid over to the state treasurer.

Auditor Will Not Pay So far the state auditor has refused to pay warrants of the State Railway commission because the attorney general has ruled that the commissioners are sitting without authority. Thus the people are confronted with a set of state officers who appear to adopt the ruling of the attorney general if it happens to please them and reject it if they do not like it.

In fact, the general opinion appears to be that the state is going to have a difficult time getting things fixed up. The two halls—Tom, the railway commissioner, and George, the state treasurer—who appear to have consolidated the two departments as a sort of advisory affair, were dissolved together this morning for a long time. After the conference, Hall, the treasurer, is understood to have said he would not pay the food commission warrants.

It had been hinted that the auditor proposed to hold up Brother Tom's warrants from the railway commission in order to force Brother George to pay the fire commission and food commission warrants, but according to Brother George the scheme has not panned out so far. The brothers are standing pat on the proposition and the only move that appears possible now is the issuance of a mandamus compelling the state treasurer to pay the warrants.

Fear Treasurer is Right. One state officer said this morning that he was in favor of all state officers going in a body to the governor and asking him to go before the supreme court and ask for a ruling on the matter, but was a little afraid that maybe the supreme court might uphold the treasurer and then there would be trouble. The situation is a very interesting one from the fact that with the closing down of the pure food department of the state all of the work which has been done since its installation will have been naught. The thousands of dollars, yes, hundreds of thousands of dollars, which have been spent to bring the department up to its present efficiency will have been thrown away. At the same time, the inspectors to carry on the work and efforts to keep up sanitary conditions will have to be stopped, with the result that Nebraska will become a dumping ground for impure food, harmful drugs, foul seed and everything of that nature which the department has cleaned up during the last three years.

Harman Will Stop. Whether the state treasurer has sufficient grounds to refuse the payment of warrants and thus bring on such a deplorable condition and whether the last legislature in its efforts to bring out an economical condition in carrying on state business, has tipped over the beans, is something which must be decided, but how or when is the question. Next Wednesday the pure food department will close down unless assured that the treasurer will allow Commissioner Harman to draw on the fees paid in by him to the state. Commissioner Harman has already notified the auditor that he desires his department checked out by the state accountant and his inspectors will turn in their commissions on Tuesday.

THOMAS LIKES HOME BEST

Says Too Much Politics in National Educational Association for Best Results.

IOWA TENT UPON FAIR GROUNDS

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—State Superintendent A. O. Thomas returned last night from his trip to the National Educational association in San Francisco more than ever convinced that a comparison of the states through which he passed with Nebraska gives the Golden Rod state much the better of the argument. "I never felt so proud of Nebraska in all my life," said the superintendent of schools, "as when I left the barren west and came rolling into Nebraska with its green fields and prosperous looking farms."

Dr. Thomas was somewhat disappointed over the association meeting. The department in which he was most vitally interested, the rural school section, held no meeting at all and there were only a dozen state superintendents in attendance at the association meeting. Too much politics spoils the work of the association, is the opinion of the doctor.

Iowa Tent at Fair. Governor Morehead believes the state fair gives a grand opportunity for people who have lived in different states to get together and get acquainted.

The governor is a native of Iowa and is anxious that Iowa people should get acquainted, so he has arranged for a party at the home of the Iowa tent on the state fair grounds and urges former Iowans to make a special effort to be at the tent at 10 o'clock in the morning each day of the fair.

Richardson county people are also invited to meet at the tent and enjoy themselves.

State House Girls Plente.

A trio of state house girls, Miss Helen Carsher, Miss Anna Whelan and Miss Leona Miller, gave an "old maid" party at the home of the trio last night to several other state house girls and a few friends from the outside. The occasion was a very recherche affair. Prizes were won for literary ability to solve some of the stunts put on by the hostesses, the first and second prizes going to Miss Helen Mullin of O'Neill and Miss Anna O'Donnell of Lincoln.

Water Power Conference.

Delegates from Nebraska have been appointed by Governor Morehead to a conference for the purpose of considering the various water power and public lands bills proposed to be introduced at the coming session of congress at Portland, Ore., September 21, 22 and 23, as follows: George Steinmeyer, Valentine; J. P. Falter, Plattsmouth; Willis Todd, Omaha; P. R. Ryan, Omaha; W. P. Byron, Gothenburg; E. Leon Perrine, Mitchell; H. B. Athey, Wauwata; R. P. James, Champlin; Jesse Wyatt, Barneston; William W. Black, Beatrice; Edwin Gramstad, Seward; H. B. Babcock, Columbus; C. H. Cornell, Valentine; Luther Bonham, Fairbury; P. Hagaberry, Bloomington; George Lyons, Nelson; Frank Dufon, Tecumseh; P. E. Arnold, Fullerton; H. Fritz, Grand Island; F. J. Taylor, St. Paul; H. Rice, Abilene; Henry Herman, Seward; C. G. Parmelee, Plattsmouth; E. Jacobs, Stateburg; S. Peas, Centerville; Fred Wright Scottabuff, James P. Whitehead, Mitchell; H. Woodman, Morrill; J. A. Hoke, Champlin; C. E. Dredick, Superior; William McDonald, North Platte; J. G. McCarthy, Ogalala; Mike Hagerty, Bridgeport; Allen G. Fisher, ...

Frank I. Ringer, commissioner of the Nebraska Manufacturers' association, made the principal address at the meeting. Ringer talked on co-operation and the value of organization in all lines of activities in the state. He reviewed the benefits the state manufacturers had received from their organization and promised the contractors they might look for better conditions in their line if they form a close and efficient organization. The contractors hope to institute a collection department, a legislative department, an information bureau and a credit department, together with a lot of divisions and departments that will be of benefit to the contractors of the state.

STATE HOSPITAL PLAN MADE

Building for Campus of College of Medicine to Accommodate One Hundred Patients.

BIDS WILL BE ASKED FOR SOON

Working plans for the new state hospital to be built on the campus of the College of Medicine at Omaha, are nearly complete. It promises to be the equal of any hospital of its size in the country. As planned, the hospital will accommodate at one time 114 patients. The number of beds is divided among six wards, which are provided with east and west windows. Each ward patient will have more than 1,200 cubic feet of space. Nurse workrooms and diet kitchen are convenient to the wards. The main kitchen is on the ground floor, together with the patients' receiving department, sterilizing rooms for clothing, storage rooms, supply rooms, dining rooms and the pathological department. The first floor, containing wards, is designed for medical patients; the second floor for surgical patients; the third floor for cases in the specialties. On the top floor is the operating suite providing two main operating rooms to the north and one teaching amphitheater to the south. The X-ray department is also on this floor, making it convenient to the operating rooms. The building plan conforms in architectural design to the present laboratory building and symmetry of buildings is assured. The detailed working plans will probably be completed within ten days and will then go to contractors for bids. Construction will be begun shortly after bids are received and contract awarded. To the state, the hospital will mean the relief of suffering among a large class now charity patients.

Amazing Films of Wild Animal Life at Boyd Theater

Leopard in Jungles Springing on Jungle fowl

Better than seeing a dozen menageries, it is said, is an afternoon or evening spent in viewing the motion pictures "How Wild Animals Live," which will be shown at the Boyd theater, beginning August 19. It is promised that these pictures are of a very high order, giving portraits of animal life such as have never been seen before. There are over 100 of them, to include a complete bird and insect studies, and as a natural history study their worth cannot be estimated. One will see animals from every part of the globe that has been trod by the foot of man. According to John W. Ruskin, the promoter of the pictures, it cost upward of $250,000 to obtain them, and when the many lands visited are taken into consideration, this can really be believed. In one instance the operator was suspended thirty feet from the top of a dangerous cliff in order that he might photograph a bald headed vulture and its young. In another instance the photographer was brought face to face with a vicious leopard in one tree and the photographer in another. It took one woman photographer ten consecutive weeks to obtain the life of the moor hen, or shy bird of the marshes. This picture, alone, is said to be worth the price of admission. In fact the whole series, embodying animals found in the arctic, in the jungles, in Australia, India, South America and our own country, makes an interesting exhibit.
